

Kūpuna Aging in Place Funding Opportunity

Online Application Deadline: Friday, March 20, 2026, 4:00 p.m. HST

OVERVIEW

Theory of Change

The Kūpuna Aging in Place (KAP) Program supports organizations that provide a range of supportive services including community-based support services, adult day care & adult day health, and care partner support services for low- to moderate-income kūpuna (older adults) age 65 and older and their care partners so kūpuna in Hawai'i can age in place, for as long as it is in their best interest.

Background

Hawai'i's population is aging rapidly. There are an estimated 287,642 kūpuna over age 65 in Hawai'i, making up 21.5% of the total population in the state.<sup>1</sup> By 2035, one in four people in Hawai'i will be 65 or older, outpacing the national average.<sup>2</sup> Hawai'i continues to have the highest life expectancy in the nation at 80.7 years of age.<sup>3</sup>

Many kūpuna in Hawai'i rely on informal or family care partners. Nearly one quarter (23%) of Hawai'i adults are family care partners, representing 260,000 adults in Hawai'i who help loved ones live independently at home and in their communities. The value of this unpaid care totals $2.6 billion each year. About half of family care partners in Hawai'i and West Coast states report financial setbacks, 60% are juggling full- or part-time jobs, and 36% report moderate to high levels of emotional stress.<sup>4</sup>

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention defines aging in place as "the ability to live in one's own home and community safely, independently, and comfortably, regardless of age, income, or ability level." Aging in place benefits kūpuna, their families, and entire communities. One of the key community characteristics that facilitates sustainable aging in place is "Community Supports & Services." These include the availability of health care, home and community-based support services for older adults and

Grant Range: Up to $80,000 per year for Community-Based Support Services or Tuition Assistance and up to $10,000 per year for Care Partner Support Services their care partners, healthy food, social integration, and participation in community life.<sup>5</sup> These services can empower kūpuna and maximize opportunities for them to live well and age in place safely, two overarching goals of Hawai'i's 2023-2027 State Plan on Aging.<sup>6</sup>

Hawai'i Community Foundation (HCF) has provided grants for elderly services for over 30 years through the Persons in Need (PIN) program, now known as the KAP program. Recognizing the rapid growth in the number of kūpuna and the dependence on care partners, in 2011, HCF adopted a focus for its aging grants to “strengthen the safety net of family and informal care giving services for older adults, with an emphasis on families and older adults of modest means.”

Purpose

Through this Funding Opportunity, HCF seeks proposals from qualified 501(c)(3) organizations to provide:

1. Community-based support services for low- to moderate-income kūpuna age 65 or older provided in kūpuna's homes or at a center/facility.
2. Tuition assistance for low- to moderate-income kūpuna age 65 or older to attend licensed adult day care or adult day health programs.
